

Salih Azgin

Middle Eastern Technical University, Northern Cyprus Campus

Valued fields in positive characteristic and valued difference fields

We present a formalization of the idea of considering valued fields in positive characteristic as valued difference fields. There are two sides to this study. One of obtaining insight to valued difference fields using ideas from positive characteristic. One of obtaining insight to positive characteristic using valued difference fields.